Lessons from leaders for leaders - transforming your care business using digital technology

Technology is powerful. It can help relatives and family feel more involved and in control of the care of their loved ones, give care workers more time to spend with residents, provide safer care and help the delivery of care become more transparent.

We've visited and filmed three different care businesses who've embarked on the journey to invest in technology in very different ways – and we want to share these journeys with you. Hosted by Skills for Care and co-hosted by the teams who've been instrumental in these changes, three webinars have been set up. Join us and be inspired.
